

Margaret Kantzer

Board Director

Margaret Kantzer is a happily married mother of two adult children.

She is also a licensed Customs Broker and a senior executive with 25+ years of experience in international trade and logistics industry. Currently, she serves as executive vice president of Transmodal Corporation overseeing a team in the planning and optimization of the company's global supply chain network. She has spearheaded the design and implementation of new processes to increase the company's efficiency, mitigate risk exposure and ensure stringent regulatory compliance.

She grew up in Eastern Europe under communist rule, which provides her with a unique perspective on social issues. She attended a master's program in psychology at the University of Lodz. She moved to the United States in 1992 and settled in New York. Margaret's knowledge of the Russian, Polish, and English languages propelled her toward the international trade industry.

Committed to continuous learning and mission-driven community development, Margaret has previously been a board member of foundation dedicated to educational excellence (AFEE) in the United States.

Margaret's hobbies include meditation, gardening, philosophy, martial arts, and global travel.
